The new album by Paramore, "brand new eyes" is a monumental milestone in the progression of alternative music.

Hollywood, California
October 8th, 2009 -
Paramore The album, "brand new eyes" by the alternative band sensation Paramore was released September 29, 2009. Fans have lined-up all over the world for the newest ground-breaking and innovative Paramore CD. With a beautifully foreshadowing performance on MTV's Unplugged, this album is certain to be Paramore's biggest hit album to date. The official music video for the first single from the album, "Ignorance" aired on MTV on August 13, 2009.

Paramore has presence. With a nomination for Best Alternative for the 2009 MTV European Music Awards, it would seem that this band knows no bounds. It is evident from the "Brand New Eyes" album that the band has grown considerably to become more experienced musicians and deeper human beings. The sound is all Paramore with increased depth, feeling and candor.

Each of the eleven songs not only helps one see Paramore in a different way, but also alternative music in a whole new way. It is as though the Paramore Album has been able to induce a state of auditory synesthesia transforming every note and vocal expression into a visual array of bliss with a fresh alternative twist. It is clear that the Paramore CD is born out of profound reflection, faith and growing-up fast. There is still the hard hitting and soft contrast that has defined Paramore in the past done only with greater balance and refinement.

The hallmark of a great rock band is that they sound better live than they do on their albums; this is certainly true for Paramore. It is not a mark against the recording studio or the album, rather a tribute to true talent and musical abilities of the members. There is nothing worse than going to a show only to have less of an appreciation for the performers than before the show. This is not the case with Paramore. When this band is on tour, it is has a must see show. Not only do they sound great live, but the band also makes the stage overflow with charisma that is all their own. Paramore will be on tour from September 29, 2009 with shows in the United States, Canada, Finland, Denmark, Sweden, France, Germany, Netherlands, United Kingdom and Ireland. Many of the venues are already sold out.

The potency and alternation between youthful expression and mature intonation of lead vocalist, Hayley Williams, continues to intensify with time. The accompaniment of Josh Farro on lead guitar and backing vocals is merging into an astounding vocal pairing. To complete the ensemble, Jeremy Davis on bass guitar is stepping-up along with Zac Farro on drums and Taylor York on rhythm guitar. Everyone pulls together onstage to put on a memorable show and they pulled together to make a great studio album. The product speaks for itself.

The encouraging reception from the rest of the world is evidenced through the increased number of Paramore t-Shirts that are worn by band supporters and sold-out shows booked across the globe. The band is still young and is producing albums that are not only beyond their time, but also have the potential to become some of the greatest alternative albums of all time. Paramore is gaining momentum in the music industry and with their album, "Brand New Eyes" they are moving forward and taking the alternative rock music industry along with them.

The Paramore band members are breaking the mold and reinventing themselves by challenging formulaic notions and pushing forward with confidence. By doing so, they are carving-out a niche in the alternative rock music industry and providing fans from around the world great singles and albums that will be played for years to come.

The Grammy-nominated band Paramore kicked-off their debut album in 2005 titled, "All We Know Is Falling" followed by, "Riot!" in 2007. "Riot!" went platinum in the United States and gold in three other countries across two continents. The newest Paramore Album, "brand new eyes" will certainly be another platinum album.
